Publication Title:

Process for the production of cellulosic articles.

Abstract:

117a Abstract of EP0494851

To produce a cellulosic article, a cellulosic amine oxide solution is pressed through a nozzle or through a slit, then passed through an air slit and finally coagulated in a precipitation bath. According to the invention, it is not stretched in the air gap, i.e. the ratio of discharge rate to hole emergence rate is at most 1; only the coagulated cellulose is stretched or deep-drawn.
